Hans-Holger Albrecht, President and CEO of Millicom said "I am delighted to welcome Till to lead the Millicom Foundation. The company has been transforming the lives of its customers for years and now we want to strengthen that commitment by supporting social action with a digital outlook where it is needed in the countries where we operate. I know Till will provide strong and dynamic leadership to this role and help deliver projects that have a lasting impact."

Till Behnke said "I believe in digitalisation as the biggest opportunity for more equal opportunities in this world. I have been working in this field for the past seven years and joining Millicom to build up its Foundation is an ideal opportunity to apply the same thinking on a larger scale and with more impact. The core business of Millicom is empowering individuals in emerging and developing countries with life changing infrastructure. The Foundation will be building on top of this by providing digital tools and mobilising people to change their world for the better."
